

Emily Anglin

Emily Anglin began dancing at the age of two. Her first fifteen years of dance study included ballet, jazz, tap and clog at the Backstage Dance Studio in Salmon, Idaho. Emily received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Dance from the University of Idaho, focusing her studies on modern dance and choreography. While at U of I, Emily had the privilege of dancing for numerous professional choreographers. In 2006, Emily's choreographic work was the only U of I student dance piece chosen to perform at The American College Dance Festival.

After graduation, Emily moved to Seattle, Washington where she founded Crooked Toe Dance Productions, a modern dance performance group. During this time, she taught for and established the modern dance program at the American Dance Institute. She has also developed dance outreach workshops in Washington and Idaho. Emily is currently dancing professionally for Kinetic Images Dance Co, a classical modern dance company. Emily plans on attending graduate school in 2010 to receive a Master of Fine Arts Degree in dance performance and choreography.

Andrea Sheridan

Andrea Sheridan grew up in Boise, Idaho and began dancing at the age of four. She trained continually all the way through High School in Ballet, Jazz, Tap and Hip Hop. Upon graduation she decided to pursue dance as a career at the University of Idaho where she was given the opportunity to work with guest artists such as Amy O'neal, Victoria Uris, Lineage Dance Company, and performers of the Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company.

Andrea has since graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Dance and recently finished teaching at the University of Idaho and Northwest Dance Center. She and her husband are moving to Texas this summer where Andrea is planning on pursuing a professional performance career.

Amanda McGavin

Amanda McGavin received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Dance from the University of Idaho in the Spring of 2008. During her time at UI, she worked with such choreographers as Henning Rubsum, Hilary Thomas of Lineage Dance Company, and Alan Senar. She choreographed for three and performed in eight main stage productions at the University and was elected Vice President of the Dance Majors and Minors Club. She attended and performed at four American College Dance Festivals across the Western US.

Amanda is currently working as an instructor at Dance Tech Studio in Idaho Falls teaching modern, jazz, ballet, and yoga. She is also working as an independent choreographer and judge, and is the co-director, and founder of The Dance Collaborative, a professional dance company of Eastern Idaho.
